Introduction

What is the Global Grassroots Resistance Directory?

The Global Grassroots Resistance Directory facilitates decentralized and non-hierarchic networking between and within grassroots movements resisting capitalism and oppressive power structures, for example in connection with the Global Days of Action against Capitalism, and similar campaigns.

The Directory contains contact information of all known groups, associations, and organizations that:

- struggle against exploitation or oppression of people, communities or the environment, and for solidarity, co-operation, grassroots democracy, decentralised forms of social organisation, and ecological sustainability;
- seek to resist capitalism and oppressive power structures;
- maintain and value grassroots based forms of organization on principles of democratic decision making, decentralized forms of organization, broad and public access to information, broad and critical internal debate, while opposing authoritarianism, elitism, and hierarchical tendencies.

In the case of many countries it has been difficult to find groups and organizations of the sort described above. We have therefore also included various trade unions, which, although rather hierarchical and centralized in nature, often can be good starting points for locating groups with more radical tendencies – contact them, inquire, go to their sub-branches, sections, etc.

The Directory also includes information of web sites and mailing lists that may be of use for networking with the sorts of groups mentioned above. In this way, web sites can be used as starting points for searching out contacts, and mailing lists for outreach in general.

How you can help

The fundamental project

To maintain and develop this Directory, we need to:

- maintain and develop web sites and web resources;
- maintain, improve, expand, and constantly revise the information contained in the directory;
- do research about new groups to include.

The general context in which to consider this Directory, however, is not limited to these tasks, but consists in the more fundamental concern of promoting the process of building up a bold and creative global grassroots resistance movement against capitalism and oppressive power structures. This Directory primarily comes out of an attempt to promote international networking for the Global Days of Action against Capitalism, which have proved particularly successful in inspiring and building up global resistance.

But many more tasks await those who share this concern:

An activist movement can – just like any other movement – flourish and grow only if a suitable "infrastructure" is developed, including all the "tools" and "spaces" that its participants need in order to communicate, coordinate, cooperate, and exchange ideas, resources, and knowledge, and also to reach out to, radicalize, and engage new people. The Global Grassroots Resistance Directory is a tool that facilitates for activists to get in touch with each other, but we need to create a lot more 'tools' and 'spaces' than this.

At a more fundamental level, activism is a phenomenon that – like all other social phenomena – can flourish only under suitable cultural, social, and economic conditions. We therefore need to reflect about what those conditions are, and how they can be created/promoted. And then we need to create them, and develop tools to facilitate such work.

Also, resistance to capitalism and oppressive power structures is not only a matter about activism, but should involve normal everyday life as well, in all its aspects. Corresponding to any everyday act or routine of ours that today just lends some support or other to the capitalist system or the statal power structures around us, we need at length to create alternative contexts in which that same act or routine can be performed at ease and comfort without lending them support.

The very possibility and realization of such resistance must therefore be worked into any aspects of our everyday life, such as consumption, work, banking, entertainment, cultural life, education, family life, and so on, and into the very structuring of the social organizations that provide us with the contexts in which these things can take place. So how can we work resistance into everyday life, into our own and into that of our society? And what tools, resources, and institutions can we create to promote that process?

There is no turning back from these questions. They constitute the real challenge to today's resistance movements against capitalism and oppressive power structures.

However small contribution the present Directory makes in meeting this challenge, it may at least be a minimal step along the right way, in that, hopefully, it will facilitate all sorts of fruitful networking.

We who have worked with this Directory want to get in touch with more anarchists and close-to-anarchists from all around the world to discuss and work with the tasks that come next. We envision a decentralized network of individuals and groups centered on the sorts of "infrastructure" issues raised above, and working on a wide and constantly expanding range of projects that would be part of the "infrastructure" of our movements.

If you would like to be part of such a network, please write and let us know at directory@lobsterparty.org.

Help us build up the Directory

Please let us know of any errors you find, and feel most welcome to send us any public contact information of your own or other groups around the world for inclusion in the directory.

Our address is directory@lobsterparty.org

You can fill out a form to post your details to us.

Here is a list of tasks that we figure are especially important right now:

- Develop this Global Grassroots Resistance Directory
- Finish the various country specific directories
- Establish suitable forms of organization that will allow for the Directory to develop, grow, and be improved in the future
- Develop a regular Bulletin to report about preparations worldwide and inspire people to take part in the Day
- Peoples' Global Action (PGA) needs help turning its website into a truly inter-active web-site with information in several languages, contact addresses, how to subscribe to lists planning stuff, self descriptions of groups and movements, pictures, sharing flyers, political analysis, realtime video footage and sound recordings, updates about actions around the world, resources etc. Contact desaparecido@gmx.de or pga@agp.org.
- Gather, create, and spread quality pamphlets about capitalism, economic alternatives, globalization, etc.
- Develop forms of worldwide cooperation between alternative media for making all articles readily available as downloadable for publication from a shared database
- Prepare for what conceivably could become the next Global Day of Action against Capitalism, namely on September 26-28, coinciding with the IMF and World Bank conference in Prague, Czech Republic (see www.destroyimf.org, www.bankwatch.org or www.imf2000.webjump.com)

User Guide

To find the contact information you need:

1. Check the specific country or region in question, under the appropriate continent heading. For example, if you want to find a group in Uganda, first go to the Africa section, and then find Uganda among the countries and regions that are listed alphabetically in that section.
2. Check the General International Section (Section I) for contacts, mailing lists, and web sites that are of general international interest. Many of these may be of help for networking or finding contacts.
3. Check the general continental section for each continent to find contacts, mailing lists, and web sites that are of general interest to that continent.

Some countries cannot be included in the main section of the Global Directory because of the large amount of information that is available for them. We have separate directories for these countries.

They are:

- Australia
- Brazil
- Canada
- Czech Republic
- England
- Finland
- France
- Germany
- Italy
- Mexico
- Netherlands
- Poland
- Portugal
- Spain
- Sweden
- USA

Many of these directories are still not ready for publication at the time of writing. If you need one of them, please see the Downloads page.

If what you need is not on the site, please send your request to <directory@lobsterparty.org>, and we will send you the particular Directory you need as a Word document or PDF file.
